Resources for Potential Candidates & Campaign Workers

Hungry to learn more? Visit the following sites for inspiration and an array of educational materials.

Campaign Manual

<http://tinyurl.com/yddb0l94>

A comprehensive guide to running a small campaign prepared by the Democratic party, but which should be highly applicable to any candidate regardless of party affiliation.

Wellstone

wellstone.org

In person trainings across the country for candidates and campaign workers, plus an amazing selection of helpful articles and resources (look under the 'tools' menu).

EMILY's List

emilyslist.org

Working to get pro-choice Democratic women elected to office.

Latino Victory Project

latinovictory.us

Latino Victory Project is a movement that builds power in the Latino community so the voices and values of Latinos are reflected at every level of government and in the policies that drive our country forward.

She Should Run

sheshouldrun.org

She Should Run provides an 'Incubator' program, which is a set of online courses to help you develop practical skills and give context for what matters most through the lens of public service.

Emerge

emergeamerica.org

Emerge gives Democratic women who want to run for public office a unique opportunity. We are the only in-depth, seven-month, 70-hour, training program providing aspiring female leaders with cutting-edge tools and training to run for elected office and elevate themselves in our political system.

Higher Heights

higherheightsforamerica.org

Investing in a strategy to expand and support the Black women's leadership pipeline at all levels and strengthen their civic participation leading up to and beyond Election Day. This work will identify, educate, and engage Black women across the socio-economic spectrum to elect Black women, influence elections and move public policy.

IGNITE

ignitenational.org

IGNITE trains young women from high schools, colleges, and universities across the United States, teaching them how to think critically about policy and understand where the levers of power to make change actually reside. Via high school curriculum, college chapters, annual conferences, and an elected women network, IGNITE teaches young women to become civically engaged and ultimately step into public service.
